

Stevenson's Cycle Launches Their New Line of Made in the U.S.A. Foot Controls

Posted on April 24th, 2009 by Lisa Ballard

We would like to welcome Stevenson's Cycle to the blog. They have announced the launch of their fully customizable foot controls. The controls are another example of Stevenson's much-awarded blend of artistry and dependability. Strikingly eye-catching and toughness combine. These new foot controls from Stevenson's Cycle are another example of a motorcycle part that will have people saying "Why didn't I think of that?"

Steve Broyles of Stevenson's Cycle is known for his innovative parts. As far as the dependability goes, the controls are made of steel instead of a less durable metal like the common billet aluminum. They are designed to last. As far as looks and image go, the foot controls are available in all black, all chrome, chrome and brass, black and brass, chrome and black, black and chrome and knurled or smooth brass toe pegs. They are sleek and stylish all on their own. They are also fully color customizable and can be powder-coated with any color.

The most ground-breaking option the foot controls offer riders is the fact that they are designed to fit any standard handle bar grip. This gives the rider the ability to switch foot control grips for a color change or wear-and-tear. The grips provide a sticky surface for a shoe sole to rest on and rubber/neoprene offer some vibration dampening.

Controls are available with left side shifter or hydraulic foot clutch and are sold in sets or separately. All foot pegs accept 1" handlebar handgrips. Starting as low as $516, the controls fit all 4-speed frames, as well as Softails through 1999. They will fit 2000 and up Harleys with an adapter kit. Also adaptable to any custom built motorcycle. Custom orders are welcomed for an additional price.
